

for k times

put a potential centroid in a random location for many times

for each data point

identify closest centroid

for each centroid

move centroid to average position of its nearest data points

