
Street-level crime details

Crimes at street level, either within a one-mile radius of a single point or within a specifically defined area.

Note: The street-level crime data returned via the API give only an approximation of where the crimes occurred; these are not the exact locations. See the About page for more information about location anonymisation.

Note: If allowing users to search for locations in Scotland, please make it clear that, since only the British Transport Police provide data for Scotland, crime levels may appear much lower than they really are.

Request parameters

lat The latitude of the crime area of interest

lng The longitude of the request's crime area date optional (YYYY-MM) The specific month for which results should be shown (the latest month will be shown by default)

Response description

category The category assigned to the crime persistent_id A 64-character unique identifier for the crime (this is different from the 'id' attribute, which is not guaranteed to remain the same for any given crime across all references to it)

month The month of the crime context Additional information about the crime (if applicable)